WISE TWO

BIOGRAPHY

Born in 1986 in Nairobi, Kenya, Wise Two grabbed his first can of spray paint when he was 17 year-old and since then he has never been apart from it. As a rebellious teenager, he finds in graffiti a means of escaping from his day-to-day reality and to quench his thirst for something better by expanding his fields of knowledge and making both human and artistic encounters with other painters and graffiti artists.

From his Indian origins he takes spirituality and a meditative mind that he likes to cultivate coupled with his interest in Eastern philosophy. From his native Kenya, he takes a deep love for traditional and ancestral cultures of sub-Saharan Africa.

Wise Two loves above all ancient civilizations, ancient texts, the tales and folklore of peoples. The artist tends to distinguish himself from his peers by painting his very own themes specific from his African culture, unwilling to comply with the European or the American way of practicing both in terms of tackling with the subject and the way of painting. Far from the New-yorker wildstyles, or from the expression "pop" of today's culture, the artist takes us into the singularity of a culture before our globalized wanders. Wise Two uses the stencil to push further his practice; this tool allows him to compose his works in layers, giving them more perspectives.

The Kenyan artist explores, in a contemporary way, traditional African art and its meanings rooted in spirituality.

WISE TWO

ARTISTIC APPROACH

Wise Two masks can be broken down into simple shapes: circles, triangles ... etc. The artist uses sacred geometry and its calculations in order to create harmony and balance approaching perfection.

The painted masks are originally ritual objects that come from Central Africa and from West Africa. In the same way that the hieroglyphics that appear on the background of his paintings, the masks have as much depth in the plastic and with their relief as in their meaning and the message they carry.

Indeed, each mask has a specific use for each of them is intended to fulfill a cultural function. By making them contemporaries with their representation, the artist adapts their first meaning and makes it accessible to the viewer so that it can interpret it freely. By putting it into perspective, a new meaning emerges from the mask, which adds to its original meaning without replacing it.

This work of superposing degrees of interpretation is carried out graphically by the superposition of the stencils in which the work is built.
